

I find it absolutely unbelievable that a company like Sinclair Broadcasting can air an anti-Kerry program just days before the election on "public" television stations. I see this as yet another action by a huge media conglomerate used to further obstruct truths and facts that are supposed to be displayed on public airways. I am not writing this as a supporter of Kerry as I would be equally concerned if this was a program such as "Fahrenheit 9/11" airing suspiciously a couple days before an election. I think the FCC should spend more time worrying about issues such as this and less time trying to find ways to increase the revenue of the FCC. Thank you for reviewing my comments.
